Now do the fleecy Skies new cloath the Wood,
 And Cakes of rustling Ice rowl down the Flood;
 When gagg'd with Ice the Waves no longer roar,
 But with stiff Arms embrace the silent Shore.

Last Winter sweeps along with tardy Pace,
 Sour is his Front, and furrow'd is his Face;
 His Scalp, if not dishonour'd quite of Hair,
 The ragged Fleece is thin, and almost bare.

Of the four Quarters of the Year.

THE Spring Quarter begins on the 20th Day of March, 16 Minutes after 4 in the Afternoon, Apparent Time.

The Summer Quarter begins June 21, 20 Minutes past 3 in the Afternoon.

The Autumnal Quarter begins on the 23d Day of September, 16 Minutes after 4 in the Morning.

The Winter Quarter begins December 21, 19 Minutes past 8 Night.

Of the Eclipses of the Sun and Moon 1754.

WITHIN the Circumference of this Year, no less than six Eclipses will happen, four of the Sun, and two of the Moon, but all these Defects, both Solar and Lunar, will be invisible in every Part of our Isle of Great Britain: they happen in the following Order :

The first is an Eclipse of the Sun, on Saturday the 23d Day of March, near 10 o'Clock at Night; this Eclipse where it is clearest, will be very small, the Moon having at that Time less than 1 Deg. 19 Min. of North Latitude.

The second Eclipse is a total, and nearly central one of the Moon, and happens on Saturday the 7th Day of April, near 8 in the Morning; this Eclipse will be visible in most Parts of North and South America.

The third is an Eclipse of the Sun, a very small one, where it is clearest, it happens on Monday the 22d Day of April, at 3 in the Afternoon.

The fourth Eclipse is another very small one of the Sun, on Monday the 16th Day of September, near 4 in the Afternoon.

The fifth is another total, and almost central Eclipse of the Moon, and visible chiefly in North and South America, and the adjacent Islands; it happens on Tuesday the 1st Day of October, near 2 in the Morning.

The last is a small and inconsiderable Eclipse of the Sun, on Tuesday the 16th Day of October, near 2 in the Morning.

Of the Crepusculum or Twilight, from Keill.

BESIDES other innumerable Conveniencies which receive from the Atmosphere, we have this great Advantage, that while the Sun shines it makes the Face of the Heavens or Firmament to appear lucid and bright; for if no Atmosphere surrounded and involved the Earth, only that part of the Heavens would appear to shine in which the Sun was placed, and a Spectator, if he should turn his Back to the Sun, would immediately perceive it as dark as Night, and even at the Day-time while the Sun shined, the least Stars would not be seen shining, as they do now in the clearest Night, since in that Case there would be no Substance to reflect the Rays of the Sun to our Eyes, and all the Rays which do not fall upon the Surface of the Earth, passing by us, would either illuminate the Planets and Stars, or spreading themselves out into infinite Space, would never be reflected back to us.

But since there is an Atmosphere covering the Earth, which is strongly illuminated by the Sun, it reflects the Light upon us, and makes the whole Heavens to shine, and thus, strongly, that, by Reason of its Splendor, it obscures the Light of the Stars, and renders them invisible.

If there were no Atmosphere, the Sun, immediately before his setting, would shine as briskly as at Noon, but in a moment, as soon as he is set, we should have the Face of the Earth in as great Darkness as it would be at Midnight. A quick Change, and so sudden a passing from the greatest Light to the greatest Darkness, would be very inconvenient to the Inhabitants of the Earth; but by Means of the Atmosphere it happens, that tho' after Sun-setting we receive no direct Light from the Sun, yet we enjoy its reflected Light for some Time; so that the Darkness of the Night comes on suddenly, but by Degrees; for after the Earth, by its Revolution round its Axis, has withdrawn us from the Sight of the Sun, the Atmosphere, which is higher than we are, is still be illuminated by the Sun; so that for a while the Heavens will have some of his Light imparted to it; but as the Sun goes still lower under the Horizon, the less is the Air enlightened by him; so that when he is got as far as 18 Deg. below the Horizon, he no longer enlightens our Atmosphere, and then all that Part thereof that is over us becomes likewise in the Morning, as soon as the Sun comes within Degrees of the Horizon, he begins again to enlighten the Atmosphere, and to diffuse his Light through the Heavens, so that his Brightness does still encrease till the Sun rises and makes Day. This small Illumination of the Atmosphere, and of the Heavens between Day and Night, is what we call Twilight, which is observed in the Morning before the Sun rising, and at Night after setting; in Latin it is named crepusculum.

The Reflection of the Atmosphere does not seem to be the Cause of the Twilight, but there is an Ætherial Air or Atmosphere likewise round the Sun, which shines after the Sun is set. This Orb of the Sun's Atmosphere rises sooner, and setting later than the Sun itself, shines out in the Mornings and Nights in a circular Figure, it being a Segment of the Sun's Atmosphere cut by the Horizon, and its Light is quite of another Sort than that which is made by the Reflection of our Atmosphere, but the Duration of the Twilight that rises from the Sun's Atmosphere, is shorter much than that made by the Reflection of the Earth's Atmosphere, which does not end till the Sun comes to be 18 Deg. below the Horizon, or thereabouts; but there can be no certain Bounds fixed for the Beginnings and Endings of the Twilight, for their Lengths depend on the Quantity of Matter in the Air which is able to reflect Light, and on the Height of the Atmosphere. In the Winter, the Air being condensed by Cold, is low, and on that Account the Twilights are sooner over. In the Summer the Air is rarified by Heat, and therefore being higher, remains longer illuminated by the Sun; so that the Twilights last the longer: Also the Duration of the Twilight is shorter in the Morning than at Night. We generally reckon that the Twilight begins or ends, when in the Morning the Stars of the sixth Magnitude disappear, or in the Evening when they first come to be seen; the Light of the Air being that rendering them invisible. Riccioli observed at Bononia that the Morning Twilight, about the Time of the Equinox, nozes, lasted an Hour and 47 Minutes, but in the Evening two Hours, and did not end till the Sun was 20 Deg. above the Horizon; but in Summer the Morning Twilight was 40 Hours and 40 Min. long; the Evening Twilight (scilicet) ending till Midnight.

Are not only fully explained, but accented on their proper Syllables, to prevent a vicious Pronunciation; and marked with initial Letters, to denote the Part of Speech to which each Word peculiarly belongs. To which is added, A Compendious English Grammar, with general Rules for the Formation of one Part of Speech from another; by the due Application whereof, such as understand English only, may be able to write as correctly and elegantly, as those who have been some Years conversant in the Greek, &c. Languages. Together with a Supplement of the proper Names of the most noted Kingdoms, Provinces, Cities, Towns, Rivers, &c. throughout the known World: As also, of the most celebrated Emperors, Kings, Queens, Priests, Poets, Philosophers, Generals, &c. whether Pagan, Mahometan, or Christian; but more especially such as are mentioned either in the Old or New Testament. The Whole alphabetically directed, and accented in the same Manner, and for the same Purpose, as the preceding Part, being collected for the Use of such, as have but an imperfect Knowledge of English Orthography. Originally begun by the late Rev. Mr. Thomas DYCHE, School-master of Stratford-le-Bow, Author of the Guide to the English Tongue, the Spelling Dictionary, &c. and now finished by WILLIAM PARDON, Gent. The Seventh Edition, with the Addition of the several Market-Towns in England and Wales; giving a general Description of the Places, their Situation, Market Days, Government, Manufactures, Number of Representatives sent to Parliament, Distance from London, both in computed and measured Miles, &c. Observations for Passing and Repassing on the Water about London.

To observe, That below Bridge the Water ebbs seven Hours, and flows five.

Above Bridge, it ebbs eight Hours, and flows four, according to the Watermens Observation, who in their Conversation use these Terms.

When the Water is at lowest, then it is called Flood; if rising, it is called Young or Old Flood; when it is at highest, and begins to fall, it is called Ebb Water.

High Water is the Time at Billingsgate for all Passengers to be bound for Gravesend, Tilbury, Grays, &c.

And to Woolwich, Blackwall, Greenwich, &c. any Time till two, or three Hours after High Water.

The Use of this TABLE is to find (by an Ephemeris) the true Place of the Moon at any particular Time of Day. But first you must know, that all Astronomers begin the Day at Noon, and count 24 Hours to the Day that beginning one Day at Noon, the same ends the next at Noon; therefore 1 in the Afternoon is the first Hour of the Day, and 13 Hours after Noon is the next Day of the Morning. Now in the following Ephemeris, the Moon's Place in the 3d Column in every Month is exactly related to the Meridian of London; and to know her Motion, you must subtract the Place of the Moon one Day, from her Place the following Day, by adding 30

(if need require it) for so many Degrees hath every and 60 Minutes in every Degree; so you have the daily of the Moon: Then look for the same in the Head, nearest Number you can find, and under it is the Mo-
of the Moon, agreeing to that Time.

Example. To find the Moon's Place, January the 9th at 10 Hours after Noon, her Place is \odot $24^{\circ} 56'$, and next Day \odot $9^{\circ} 52'$; therefore her diurnal Motion is 15° , which Number I find in the Head of the Table, against 10 Hours is $6^{\circ} 13'$; which added to \odot $24^{\circ} 56'$, will be \odot $1^{\circ} 9'$, her Place at 10 o'Clock that
